

What Are They?

By Vivian Gould

They play in the snow, but they never use sleds.
Or wear wooly mittens or caps on their heads.

They swim and they waddle as much as they wish.
And when they get hungry they dive for a fish.

They live where it's cold in a land somewhere far,
And they're all black and white.

Do you know what they are?

